

Nature-Based Learning at Oak Meadow

Why?

We live in an age in which people spend less and less time engaging authentically with nature and the world around us. It is also clear that some of the most critical challenges (and solutions) that our and future generations face will have more and more to do with the natural world. Additionally, neuroscience has proven that hands-on, multisensory, relevant experiences in fact create the most impactful creative learning.

Considering these specific challenges and opportunities, and seeing that our mission, vision and dedication to experiential learning are closely aligned with addressing them, Oak Meadow has prioritized incorporating outdoor, nature-based learning as part of our program. We believe that these opportunities will be a critical to students' education and to their potential as problem solvers in our global society.

Read about the launch of the Campus Master Plan project.